Interprovincial Hockey Planned For December 12

Joe McDougall Of Blairmore Elected President; Al. Tiberg Was Elected Secretary.

The Fernie Free Press of Nov. 6 carries the following news item:

Joe McDougall of Blairmore was elected president and Al. Tiberg of Coleman secretary of the newly formed interprovincial intermediate hockey league which was organized at a meeting in the city Council Chamber last Friday evening.

Representatives were present from Kimberley, Cranbrook, Blairmore, Lethbridge, Coleman and Fernie. The new league has been formed in an endeavor to induce more competition in this area.

It is planned, all things being equal, to hold the opening game on Dec. 12, with all games and play-offs finished by the first of February. This will enable the Alberta and British Columbia divisions to compete in their respective playdowns.

The season's schedule will be drawn up at Blairmore on Sunday, November 16.

Ex-Blairmore Is Now Social Editor Of The "Summerland Review"

With this issue of The Review, the work of social editor is being undertaken by Mrs. Agnes McKay, who succeeds Mrs. Muriel Harry. Mrs. Harry left on Friday evening to make her new home at New Westminster.

Mrs. McKay is the wife of Mr. Thomas McKay. The Review is a weekly operator, who joined the staff at Eastview, coming here from the Trail Times.

In the short time they have resided in this community Mr. and Mrs. McKay have made a large circle of friends, and have shown that they have community interests at heart.

Social notes may be telephoned to The Review office. The number is 156.

THE FEMININE FRONT by MURIEL HURRY

This is my farewell column for The Summerland Review, and I write it with a mixture of emotions.

It is difficult for me to leave Summerland. I have roots here. And in the employment of The Review I have found congeniality and satisfaction. I doubt that any future employment can give me this same sense of achievement. As I am the only original member of The Review staff, I shared with the management the first weeks of turmoil in the birth of the paper, and probably for this reason, The Review will always hold a very real spot in my heart.

I think that Summerland will also always be "home" to me. Here I experienced my greatest joys and achievements, as well as a minimum of sorrow. In Summerland I will leave much of my heart

But this is enough of nostalgia. I know that the women of Summerland will be interested in knowing a little of the background of their future social editor.

Mrs. Tom McKay makes her debut this week as social editor. She has been a resident of Summerland only since Easter, when her husband joined the printing staff of The Review, and we have often wondered how we ever managed without this capable, cheerful asset.

Mrs. McKay is an attractive and charming young matron, the mother of a lovely six-year-old daughter, Marilyn. Because of her husband's occupation, she has always taken a keen interest in the newspaper world, and I know that she will make a real success of her job as social editor.

I wish to thank the women's organizations of Summerland for the help and co-operation they have given me in my work here, and I trust that they will give this same fine support to Mrs. McKay.

As I have never been fond of either lengthy or sad farewells, I will make this last Feminine Front very brief, and say only in the famous, but sincere words of Tiny Tim, "Good-by, and God bless you, every one."

Mrs. F. A. Johnson

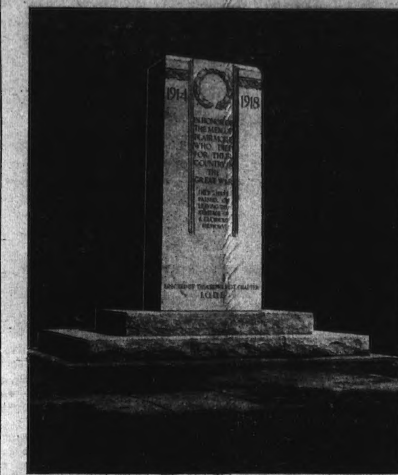

Requiem high mass was sung at St. Anne's Roman Catholic church, Monday morning, for Mrs. Fred A. Johnson who passed away here on Nov. 7 following a long illness. Interment followed in the Roman Catholic Cemetery, Rev. Dean M. A. Harrington officiating. H. Culham was in charge of funeral arrangements.

A native of Westham, London, England, the late Mrs. Johnson came to Canada in 1919, settling in Blairmore with her family where she had resided since. She is survived by her husband and on daughter, Mrs. Julia Poole of Calgary and two brothers and one sister in England.

WRITING CONTEST WINNERS NAMED

Desiring to encourage research and writing in the field of Southern Alberta regional history and folklore, the Lethbridge Herald sponsored some months ago a competition for members of the Southern Alberta Writers' club. Cash prizes were offered for the two best manuscripts submitted in the opinion of a committee of three judges. The results were pleasing. Numbers of excellent stories were received, valuable additions to the history of this region. The two winners have now been announced as follows:

First—Mrs. Freda S. Mudiman of Blairmore, formerly of Lethbridge, for

Mrs. M. Litviak, Of Blairmore Passes Away At Macleod

The district was shocked around noon to hear of the death at Macleod hospital around 9 o'clock this morning of Mrs. Alice Litviak, wife of Mr. M. Litviak of Blairmore. Her passing was unexpected as she was expected to return home in a couple of days.

Born in Frank, Mrs. Litviak was in her 35th year and with members of the family grew up in the district. In 1929, she married M. Litviak in Blairmore.

Besides the sorrowing husband and family of three children, Edward, Roy and Betty, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Uhren, residing in Blairmore; three sisters, Mrs. W. Sever, Botha, Alberta; Mrs. B. Gentle and Mrs. B. Fontana, both of Coleman; and two brothers, J. Uhren, Blairmore, and G. Uhren, Hamilton, Ontario.

The body will be taken to Blairmore and funeral announcement will be made later.

her story, "Far From the Heart of Texas," a regional history subject. Second—Mrs. E. Lynch-Staunton of Pincher Creek, for her story on the "Legend of the White Horses of Big Chief Mountain," an Indian folklore subject.

The Herald congratulates these writers, and all who sent in manuscripts for very praiseworthy work. The Herald plans to publish the winning manuscripts.

Blairmore Armistice Day Celebration

(A Spectator)

The Armistice Parade in Blairmore was led by the usual colorful mounties followed by Captain J. Pratt then C. S. M. Montalbetti and the personnel of the 22nd Armoured Brigade Workshop. Next came the Legion members followed by the Cadets. The Coleman Pipe Band did a splendid job and was in turn followed by the I.O.D.E.

The service in the Blairmore theatre is one to be remembered by all who attended. The meeting from the time it was opened by President G. Rees right through "The Anthem, Invocation by Rev. McKelvey. Hymn, followed by a rendition by the Church Choir, was interesting and path warming for the highlight of the ceremony—"The Two Minutes Silence. The hall became dark and the capacity crowd fell silent. A spot light shone on a curtained portion of the stage. The Last Post began softly and smoothly. From somewhere in the distance a voice was heard reciting "In Flanders Fields." Slowly the curtains were drawn apart to reveal row on row of emblematic white crosses with a huge one in the background all of which was surrounded by a miniature white picket fence.

All through the hall the tear drops started as anguished parents, relatives and friends thought of their dead as has been the custom for many years. However, this year another feeling has been added. It hung in the air above the bowed heads, then slowly, persistently seeped down into the depths of every heart—"Did they or did they not die in vain?"

Never have I seen a more fitting ceremony or a more serious heart-felt display of the emotions of the people of Blairmore on Memorial Day and was in turn followed by the I.O.D.E.

After the two minutes silence a solo "Peace I Leave With You" was rendered by Mrs. F. R. Duncanson, followed by a Memorial Prayer ending with the Lord's Prayer. An address was then given by Mayor E. Williams.

Following this the Church Choir sang "Let Us Have Peace." This was certainly enjoyed by all present as their previous rendition "Souls of The Righteous in The Hand of God."

Rev. McKelvey's scripture reading no doubt went home to many hearts. It is sometimes hard to believe that such words of peace were ever written but erase the cobwebs from our eyes, and our Bibles and they are there, for all to see.

Let us hope and pray that in some near future date we will find the ways and means of making "Peace" the symbols of our way of life as this is what our dear ones fought and died for.

After another hymn and God Save The King followed by the Benediction, the crowd departed for the cenotaph. Unfortunately a brisk cold wind had arisen but this did not defer the proceedings in any way.

The parade formed again in front of the theatre and then proceeded to the cenotaph. After the Union Jack was put in place by Mrs. B. Hobson, president of the I.O.D.E. Several lovely wreaths were placed in a commendable manner at the base of the monument. The precision with which the firing party carried out their orders was indeed a picturesque and heart warming scene. They were indeed a credit to Lieutenant S. Hawkins. If aggression again rears its ugly head there is no doubt we have many more well trained, willing and eager boys to defend our country just as their comrades did before them. The "Last Post" again ably played by Mr. B. Hobson accompanied by the pipes and rolling of the drums ended the ceremonies.

The Rex Cafe handled the members of the Choir, the Cadets and I.O.D.E. where they were served a well earned lunch.

A beautiful luncheon was also served by the Blairmore Branch of the Canadian Legion, at which Mr. D. W. Morgan, District Veterans' Welfare Officer urged, on his listeners the necessity of maintaining a united front against any attempt made to encroach on World Peace. In his comparison of the various rehabilitation plans he declared that Canada's Rehabilitation

New Books For The Blairmore Public Library

Additional Books May Be Reviewed At The Blairmore Public Library; This Week End.

Additional books will be added to the Blairmore Public Library at the week-end. The latest publications include the following: Great Adventures and Explorations, edited by Vilhjalmur Stefansson; The Hill of the Hawk, R. O'Dell; Ride East! Ride West! A Powers; The Golden Porcupine, Muriel Roy Bolton; The Bright Promise, R. Sherman; The Neighbors, V. Sorenson; Take Three Doctors, E. Seifert; Came a Cavalier, F. Parkinson Keyes.

Mrs. Larhaletier, librarian, is planning to have a special section for the always popular "Westerns." The library already includes an excellent collection of detective and mystery stories. Special attention is also being given to the addition of more animal stories in the junior section. Among new books are Wilderness Champion, by Lippincott; Biography of a Grizzly, by Seton; and Heart of a Dog, by Terhune.

Remembrance Day Mrs. Josephine Wislet A Former Resident; Arrives From Belgium

Remembrance Day of 1947 held in Blairmore was surely one day we shall never forget.

The B.E.S.L. President and Committees wish to thank the Citizens of Blairmore for turning out in such numbers. Also the Press for their assistance and space in their paper, and Mr. D. W. Morgan and Mr. F. Izard, D.V.A. Calgary, for their able assistance. The day could not have been the success it was, had it not been for the splendid co-operation of the various organizations which took part. Again we say thanks to all.

Cowley Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Maloff are rejoicing over the birth of a son, Larry, in St. Vincent's hospital, Pincher Creek on Tuesday, Nov. 5.

A largely attended turkey supper sponsored by the ladies of St. Joseph's Altar Society was held in Papp's hall, Wednesday, Nov. 5.

Mrs. Stanley Snyder accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Leslie Day, of Claresholm, has returned from a recent visit to Calgary.

Owing to the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. M. A. Perceval, Marcel Perceval and Mrs. Melvin Ball (nee Mary Perceval), have arrived from their homes at Courtenay, BC.

Four inches of fresh snow fell here on Monday of this week.

Mrs. M. A. Perceval is a patient in St. Vincent's hospital, Pincher Creek, suffering the effects of a severe stroke on Thursday of last week. Although her condition improved she is still critically ill.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Aidan's Anglican church here will hold an afternoon tea and miscellaneous sale on Saturday, Nov. 15.

Joe Diamond has a crew of men doing extensive repair work to his residence in the west end of town here.

The North Fork river bridge, which has been undergoing repair work for the past several weeks, is now completed and open to traffic.

Eric Sandeman of Edmonton and Miss Kathleen Elton and Jack Sandeman of Calgary were down to spend the week-end at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Elton here.

Joe Grogg, while walking home Monday night from Lundbreck, a distance of about five miles, was caught in a snow storm when he stumbled and fell, unable to get up, stayed out in the cold all night and on the following morning he was found by John McCulloch, a neighbor, and taken to the hospital in Pincher Creek. Mr. Grogg was found to be suffering from severe chill and frostbitten feet.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

LAZY BOY

By I. de La Torre

His sneaker, raising puffs of dust. Billy raced down the path to the lake. Now he stopped, snatched an overhanging branch and clung to it, gasping for breath. After a backward glance, satisfied in that the little white schoolhouse no longer showed through the trees, he jerked up his black trousers and shuffled on.

"School!" he mumbled to himself. "I'm sick of it! And if I'm put on any more crying acts when I talk about quitting, it just ain't going to do her any good. I could fake my age and join the Navy to see the Nah! too much orders to take. Maybe I'll just drift around, free like a kite."

Now that his future was so promptly settled, Billy looked around for something to attract his immediate interest. A thin column of smoke rising from the clearing caught his eye.

"Funny time for anybody to have a fire on the beach," he told himself and dashed across. The two men crouching over the fire turned around as Billy approached. Both wore shabby clothes, and their faces looked as if untouched by water or razor for weeks.

"You—you tramp?" Billy blurted. The two men looked at each other and the one sitting on an overturned log can answered.

"Yeah, we're bums. What you doin' here? Ain't yuh supposed to be in school?"

"Sure. Just taking a vacation today," and Billy grinned, pleased with his wit.

The big man who had just spoken picked up a twig, snapped it, and threw it on the fire.

"Hey, Joe," he grunted to his companion, "what yuh say duh kid join up wid us?" He put his hand on the boy's shoulder.

"You mean go around tramping with you?" Billy broke in.

"Yuh know how tuh ride rails, kid?" Joe inquired.

"Sure—sure I do." Billy wasn't as certain as he sounded, but from what he had seen of "riding the rods" in the movies it looked easy enough.

The first tramp picked up a rusty can and with the aid of a stick propped it in the centre of the crackling twigs. He was still poking it into position as he drawled out, "Hey, Joe. Member Horsey Sinder? Jus' heard other day he lost his leg ridin' onah Sante Fe. Trackman followed up his blood fer 10 miles."

"Aw, that guy couldn't hold on tuh a kiddy car 'out fallen off. Yeah, got woid Beardy Oiler got it too last week. Head crushed 'tween couplers like it was ch' squashed egg."

Joe paused and pointed to Billy's feet.

"Mike, wouldjah ast dah kid tuh gimme his shoes? Mine's ain't got 'nuf sole on 'em tuh grind up fer chewin'."

"Mine?" Billy cried. He held one foot forward for them to see. "These are my only school shoes and I—" "Yeah—yours," Mike snarled. "Yuh ain't goin' tuh school no more, is yuh?" He started to stand up but Joe motioned him down.

"Aw, let'em have 'em. He'll be wearin' noose-papers 'round his feet soon 'nuf. We get 'niter 40 below winter of last year and no doin' doin' nothin' of muth too'll get frozen off. Hah, mabbe muth feet'll be little 'nuf tuh wrap intuh dah tabloids," he finished, chuckling to himself.

Billy, kneeling beside the fire, watched the dying flames and nudged with the buckle on his belt. "Gosh! Doa boduga crawlin' over me innah dark was so big I figured mabbe dey was turtles."

"Can't help it, Mike. Just thinkin' 'bout dat dog jern last night. Gosh! Doa boduga crawlin' over me innah dark was so big I figured mabbe dey was turtles."

Billy leaned over and peered into the can. "What—what is it?" he stammered.

"Stewed pig tails," Mike drawled. "Ain't often we got such luck as tuh get such good eat'n as that, do we Joe?"

"Yeah, member dat time we couldn't get nuttin but fish heads intuh dah garbage pail? Musta been time wasn't much meat 'round."

"Here, kid," Mike was proudly holding up the can. "New members foist. Gobble it down when it's still good'n hot, boy!"

"No—no thanks. I—I—" Billy's lips clenched together and his hands went instinctively over his mouth. He shook his head and fled.

Mike dropped the can, threw back his head and laughed until he sank to the ground exhausted. His companion yawned a laugh-tear away.

"What did you do, Mike?" he panted. "Broil our worms?"

Mike nodded. "The shakin' was getting terrible, anyway." He rose wearily off the ground. "Come on, let's look for the canoe and start home. And please remember, dear brother, that it's your turn to take mother to a fish dinner at the Seafod Grotto."

George will select the team and coach them while in Canada, and Frank will take over the coaching duties when the team leaves for Switzerland. George Boucher played professional hockey in Ottawa, Montreal, Chicago and St. Louis. Last year he came out of retirement to take over the coaching of the Ottawa Senators. Frank played professional hockey in Philadelphia and Providence before joining the R.C.A.F. in 1941.

SELECTED RECIPES

ORANGE CUP CAKES

2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup milk

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add orange rind to butter and cream well. Add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into greased small cup-cakes pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 15 minutes, or until done. Cool. Frost with Orange Butter Frosting. Makes 24 dozen.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES

2 cups buckwheat flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
4 cups (1 qt.) sour milk or buttermilk

4 tablespoons melted shortening
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, salt, and sugar, and sift together into bowl. Combine eggs and milk and add to flour mixture. Add shortening. Then mix only enough to lumpen dough. Bake on hot, greased griddle. Serve at once on warm plates with butter and syrup, or honey. Makes about 2 dozen griddlecakes.

Government Plans New Department

Designed To Make Full Use Of The Vast Natural Resources Of Canada

OTTAWA.—A sweeping national development program, perhaps the greatest in Canada's history and designed to make full use of her vast natural resources in the field of manufacture, is expected to stem from creation of a new department now said to be planned by the administration.

First news of the planned new department came from a source close to the cabinet who said it would be forecast in the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament.

It would replace the reconstruction department now complete: post-war rehabilitation activities and the source said it would be headed by Reconstruction Minister Howe, the man who guided the Dominion supply for war and moulded the framework of her post-war reconversion.

Main job of the new department, the source said, would be to map a long-term program for development of Canada's natural resources with particular attention to making the Dominion more self-sufficient in vital iron and steel, in curtailing waste in industry and in encouraging manufacture of Canadian products from Canadian raw materials instead of exporting them in raw form.

Using Hat Pins Against Bag-Snatchers

JOHANNESBURG.—Many women are using hatpins again—not for fashion, but as protection against bag-snatchers and other types of criminals who prow the streets at night. They are carrying them in their handbags.

Here are points of advice given by the wife of a policeman to women who have to go out at night:

Always be conscious that you are exposed to danger. If accosted run up on the nearest porch and ring the bell. Walk by the curb to increase vision. Don't carry a purse with a swinging motion. Better still, carry your needs in a small purse which fits into a pocket. Scream "like mad" if you are attacked.

STATEMENT ON SETTLEMENT OF IMPENDING RAILWAY STRIKE

The Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, expressed great satisfaction with the announcement that the dispute between the railway companies and the railway employees' organizations had been satisfactorily adjusted.

"I really never expected that there would be a strike in our railways," he said. "For years I have been intimately acquainted with leaders of the railway organizations and the officers of the companies, and I never lost hope that an amicable settlement of the differences would be reached. A national tie-up of our railway transportation systems would have been disastrous to this country, not only because of what it would mean to our domestic economy, but also because of the adverse effect it would have on shipments of vitally needed materials to Great Britain. I knew very well that in the minds of the leaders of both sides there was a clear understanding of this situation. I always have had a great deal of admiration for the common sense which has actuated both the leaders of the employees' organizations and the railway companies. Therefore, I am not surprised that a friendly settlement has been reached. This is what I regard as collective bargaining at its very best."

FAGGED FEET

Tired feet are a handicap at any time and never more than when one wants to concentrate. To young people absorbed in studies, such pains as arise from fagged feet are a distraction and may have tragic consequences. How can attention be focused when the pedal extremities hurt?

Medical opinion favors instruction of young people on all those matters which once were ignored, such health advice, for instance, as approved methods of caring for the feet. After all, the doctors say, it's the sort of understanding which is essential to well-being.

Coleman Poles Act As Central Body

Five Alberta Polish societies, representing almost 2,000 Poles in the province, will form a central body to co-ordinate activities and give official representation on matters of province-wide interest. It was decided at a Polish veterans convention over the weekend in Edmonton.

About 250 representatives from Calgary, Coleman and Edmonton, along with some 25 veterans of the Polish army were in attendance.

Delegates represented the Polish Society of Brotherly Aid, Coleman; the Polish Alliance, Calgary; the Polish Veterans Association of Edmonton; the Polish Combatants Association of Alberta; and the Polish-Canadian Society in Edmonton.

A committee of eight were elected to lay plans and draw up a constitution. Roman Hauptman of Edmonton, chairman of the convention, was named as the chairman of the committee.

For the time being, the Coleman group will act as the central body but said Mr. Hauptman, it is probable that Edmonton will be chosen as headquarters after the organization is complete.

30th Anniversary Of U.S.S.R. Celebrated By Concert-Meeting, At Coleman.

Approximately 200 people attended the concert meeting held at Coleman Community Hall Sunday night to commemorate the 30th Anniversary of the Founding of the Soviet Union. The program included songs by the Slavonic Choir under the direction of Pete Meronuk, Coleman; several musical numbers and brief addresses by speakers representing Slavonic language groups. Among the latter was Mr. Misha Koral, assistant national secretary of the Association of United Ukrainian Canadians. Guest speaker of the evening was B.R. Swankey, Provincial Leader of the Labor-Progressive Party.

Mr. Swankey charged that "American imperialism, using the dollar as a bribe and the atomic bomb as a threat, is endeavoring to fasten its control over the whole world. Today it dominates the United Nations and is trying to make the U. N. an instrument for carrying out its own imperialistic policies. War mongers, principally in the U. S., are openly advocating an atomic war against the Soviet Union. All this is done under the guise of combating Communism, which is a smoke-screen all reactionaries use today to hide their nefarious deeds. The war-mongers of today will fail just as Hitler failed. Socialism is here to stay and nothing can destroy it. The German fascist attack on the U.S.S.R. in 1941 clearly proved that."

"The U.S.S.R." said Mr. Swankey "has consistently taken a position in defense of small nations, for freedom of all colonies, for universal disarmament and for the destruction of the atomic bomb."

"Canada is being integrated into the war plans of Wall Street which plans to use our country as a pawn in the event of another war," said Mr. Swankey. He called on Canadians to guard "our independence against domination of the Yankee dollar" and said it was in the best interests of the majority of Canadians to work for a policy of "peace, friendship and trade with the Soviet Union and the New Democracies of Eastern Europe."

HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE

*Optional of extra cost

Some day... no car driven will shift gears... push a clutch. But today... only GM Hydra-Matic Drive provides fully automatic shifting through four forward speeds! Only GM Hydra-Matic Drive eliminates the clutch pedal entirely!

Hydra-Matic Drive was introduced by Oldsmobile nearly 8 years ago! Since that time it has been proved in the hands of nearly 400,000 Oldsmobile owners—proved in literally billions of miles of driving—even proved in combat use on Army tanks! Today, the lowest-priced car to offer GM Hydra-Matic Drive* is the smart new Oldsmobile—away out ahead automatically—away out ahead in appearance, too. Owners know Oldsmobile is always in tune with tomorrow. They expect Oldsmobile to come out first with the really important advancements like Hydra-Matic Drive. That's why so many future-minded people say, "It's SMART to Own an Olds!"

The "drive" of tomorrow is here today! ... as ultra-modern as television, and with nearly 8 years of PROOF behind it!

When the Worm Turns The Soil Is Enriched

But for the humble worm our soil would deteriorate and gradually become so poor as to be practically useless for cultivation.

So vital is the earthworm in the economy of man that Charles Darwin, who made a life study of it, wondered if any other animal has played so important a part in the history of the world. Its job is to build topsoil. Nothing can be raised on bed-rock. Practically everything man eats comes from the first foot of the world's pulverized crust.

Scientists are becoming increasingly alarmed over soil erosion. In America's vast "Dust Bowl," in Asia, Africa—and to a lesser extent in Europe—wind and water are carrying away millions of tons of the finest agricultural land.

Erosion destroys the all-vital topsoil. Worms build it up. Dr. Barrett declares they are ready to replenish the whole surface of America's agricultural land. Give the worms a chance, encourage them, and they can make the farms of the New World three or four times more productive.

The Nile centres a region famous for its productive soil since the days of the ancients. Dr. Barrett knows why. The Nile carries down vast quantities of vegetable and organic matter at flood-time, bringing them into contact with the innumerable host of waiting worms. Roused to the surface, they busy themselves making topsoil out of the edible part of the silt.

The world owes its fertile soil in large measure to the worms. They were at work long before the first spade or plough turned the sod, and native tribes practising primitive agricultural methods know full well the value of their activities. In certain parts of Africa natives look for worm-casts as Red Indians used to look for the trail of men and animals.

Where worm-casts are plentiful the tribesmen settle for brief cultivation, knowing they will get a harvest. Where casts are few they do not even attempt to grow crops. The same is true of intensively cultivated countryside like that of Britain, which owes its fine lawns and grasslands and its productive gardens to the humble worm.

Gilbert White, who quickly grasped the value of earthworms, wrote: "Earthworms, in appearance a small and despicable link in the chain of Nature; yet, if lost, they would make a lamentable chasm. . . . Worms seem to be the great promoters of vegetation, which would proceed but faintly without them. The earth without worms would soon become cold, hard-boned and void of fermentation and consequently sterile."

Earthworms are found in almost every part of the globe. They vary much in size, ten inches being the largest found in Britain. Abroad, however, in Natal, Southern India, South America and Australia gigantic species are found, some over four feet long.

A striking example of the effect of their activities comes from a fertile and healthy district in West Africa. There earthworms are notably abundant and it is calculated that every particle of soil to the depth of two feet is brought up to the surface once in twenty-seven years—a case of perfect ploughing.

The work of worms naturally results in burying everything left on the surface. This is shown by the gradual subsidence of stones and ruins which sink into the soil by their persistent action. Marked stones have been watched and it is found that big stones sink lower than small, thin ones. This is because the sun's rays fail to penetrate the bigger stones. It is cold and the worms will not congregate beneath them.

The most extraordinary example of the work of worms was the burying of a Roman city. The site of the ancient capital of the Cornovii in Shropshire had been lost, and with it the remains of the Roman city of Uriconium, which followed it. But on a stretch of undulating land near the Wrekin it was noticed crops grew early and with unusual luxuriance.

Digging was begun to discover why. Beneath the soil they found the remains of the lost city. It had been destroyed by the Saxons, and the skeletons of some inhabitants who fell before them were unearthed. In some places the worms had raised the soil forty inches above the ruins.

"The plough," said Darwin, "is one of man's inventions. But long before man existed the land was in fact regularly ploughed and still continues to be ploughed by earthworms."—Everybody's Weekly.

Birth Registration Is IMPORTANT

Registration of births is of more importance today than it has ever been, according to a bulletin issued by the provincial Department of Public Health. They are now necessary, not only as proof of age in such matters as family allowances, insurance policies, and superannuation and pension schemes, but they are also required for identification purposes by Canadians seeking entrance to the United States.

With this new importance of the birth certificate, has come a surge of requests for registration from persons whose parents had neglected the formality, if indeed there was any provision for it, at time of birth.

Unfortunately many such registrations have been falsely sought by aliens not born in Canada as well as by persons who, for some reason, wished to establish false ages. War and the formulation of plans for family allowances brought an unsatisfactory situation to a head at the 1944 Dominion-provincial conference and it was made obligatory for all persons to produce proof, for registration purposes, of the place and date of his birth and the identity of his parents, thus bringing the practice all over Canada in line with Alberta vital statistics procedure.

Britain Builds Ships

ONE OF THE GREATEST FEATURES of the recent war was the Battle of the Atlantic. The high rate at which ships carrying vital needed cargoes from this continent to Britain were destroyed constituted one of the major difficulties in defeating the enemy, and represented staggering losses in men, ships and supplies. In wartime these sinkings were extremely serious, and they have continued to affect the shipping situation ever since because of the critical shortage of ships which resulted from such extensive losses. Ever since the end of the war, efforts have been made to build merchant and passenger ships in sufficient numbers to meet the great post-war demand for shipping space, but many are still needed to fulfill present requirements.

Large Program Is Undertaken

In this connection, the British Ministry of Information has recently given out some details of the ship-building program in that country. The United Kingdom is possessed of a fine tradition for the craft of building ships, and every big ship-building yard there is now carrying out an extensive construction program to replace wartime losses. Ships under construction or on order at the present time are estimated to amount to more than 3,000,000 gross tons, while there are another 3,500,000 tons under repair or being converted for other uses than those for which they were originally built. In spite of the severe shortages of labor and materials with which the builders must contend, Britain is reported to be building more ships than all other countries put together and is endeavoring to fill not only her own needs, but to supply other countries.

To Fill Many Outside Orders

Since the end of the war, overseas countries have ordered 323 ships, valued at $360,000,000 with the United Kingdom ship builders. These do not include large orders from other parts of the British Commonwealth. More ships are being built, however, for British shipping companies than for those of any other country, and these companies will receive more than one-third of the present world construction. Britain is, in the words of the article published by the Ministry of Information "making valiant efforts to restore the service on the seven seas which won such prestige before the war." It is clear that the building up of her merchant and passenger fleets is a most important factor in post-war recovery, and United Kingdom ship-builders are to be commended for the splendid effort which they are making at this time.

Peppermint Now Grown On B.C. Farm

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C.—Oil extract from peppermint, enough to supply Canadian requirements, may soon be produced in this Fraser Valley district. An experimental nine-acre field of peppermint, only one in the province, is being grown on the model farm operated by George Hefel. Roots of the plants were imported from Oregon two years ago, and oil is being extracted by a distillation process in a small pilot plant. Harvest now is in progress. The mint patch must be kept entirely free of weeds. It is cut bi-weekly, the stems and leaves being allowed to cure before being put through the still. The oil brings $7 a pound and is used chiefly by gum manufacturers.

"Son, why don't you say circus?" It's great fun. First you make a sawdust ring—

"But where would I get the sawdust, dad?"

"Get it from the saw. Just cut some of the firewood into fireplace lengths. And you can have all the sawdust you make."

"Did you get that cigar from a friend?"

"I don't know yet."

Stout Lady (to little boy): "Will you tell me if I can go through this gate to the park?"

Boy: "I guess so. A load of hay just made it."

Teacher: Jimmy, what's a Grecian urn?

Jimmy: That depends on what he does.

Rookie: "I never rode a horse before."

Stable Sgt.: "Well, here's just the animal for you—he's never been ridden, so you two can start off together."

"Were you nervous?" asked young Mrs. Hobson, "when you begged daddy to give his consent?"

"He gave me the right of my life," granted Hobson.

She is still wondering what he meant.

Teacher: "Tommy, how many make a few?"

Tommy: "Three or four."

"How many make a dozen?"

"Twelve."

"How many make a million?"

"Very few."

Railway From Vancouver To Alaska Planned

Project Calls For 1,000 Miles Of New Road To Fairbanks

WASHINGTON.—Plans for construction of a railroad from Vancouver to Fairbanks, Alaska, are under consideration by a group of private investors.

Marshall Ramsey Diggs, Washington counsel for the group, said his clients had been studying the project for several years and he hoped to be able to announce definite plans, along with the names of the backers, within 30 days.

Diggs said the idea calls for faking over 345 miles of railroad now owned by British Columbia and building another 1,000 miles into Fairbanks, where the proposed road would connect with the Alaska railroad.

Diggs predicted that either his group or some other "will start this railroad within three or four years."

"The present plans contemplate that the railroad will be constructed by private capital. We hope that after we reach Alaska our government will aid in the construction but we have received no commitments from it though government officials have shown great interest."

"We are anxious that a railroad be built to the territory for we believe that is the only way it ever will be opened up."

"And, in view of the present Russian situation, we should have such a connection with our territory."

"The railroad will open up vast resources, and in Canada that country is exceedingly rich in natural resources such as coal, timber and pulp wood."

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—All was even today between a newspaper reporter and a girl who fluffed powder in his soup.

Tom Simmons said that he was tired of women using cosmetics at restaurant tables. So he came prepared for revenge.

Simmons asked the waiter for a "bowl of hot water."

The next moment Simmons pulled out a tube of shaving cream and a razor and started shaving.

"If the girls can make up their faces in restaurants," Simmons said, "I can shave at the table, too."

New Product To Destroy Poultry Lice

Soon to appear on the market is a new product manufactured to destroy poultry lice by a completely and radically new method.

Wilson's Roost Paint by name, it will reach the poultry raiser in the form of a paint which will be applied by brush to the chicken roost. When the chickens roost, vapors from the roost paint will rise through the feathers of the chickens and kill poultry lice.

This new approach to the problem of getting rid of poultry lice will be welcomed by poultrymen as it does away with the old and slow necessity of dusting each individual chicken with louse powder.

This is a new line for the firm who make Wilson's Fly Pads—used in Western Canada by thousands of families with great success.

"We have found men who had accidents due to these causes, for instead of having their minds on driving, they were thinking of the poor breakfast they had."

MAY ISSUE ONLY $25.00 U.S. FUNDS WITHOUT PERMIT

OTTAWA.—The amount of United States funds Canadian banks may issue to Canadians needing American dollars without the filling out of a special Foreign Exchange Control Board form has been reduced from $100 to $25 but a board official said that no change of policy was involved.

Describing the change as purely technical, he said it was made to give the board a better opportunity to scrutinize the amounts of American funds being made available in small amounts in the face of the dwindling American dollar position of Canada.

No change has been made in the maximum amount of $500 which banks may issue to Canadians in American funds without a direct reference to the Foreign Exchange Control Board, but in all cases over $25 a form must be filled out.

In cases where a Canadian requires more than $500 in American funds for any purpose, he must make his application to the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

South Alberta Still A Wild Life Paradise—A Lure To Sportsmen

South Alberta has always been a wild life paradise. During early frontier days, the buffalo furnished food for nomadic Indian tribes of whom the greatest hunters were the Bloods, the Peigans, the Stonies, and the Sarcees.

However, hunters and traders repeating rifles liquidated the buffalo in the '70s and '80s. But South Alberta is still a colorful spot for outdoor sportsmen, offering in its mountains, its foothills and plains, nearly everything that is to be found in the way of wild animals, migratory fowl and game birds.

This summer, for instance, within 75 miles of Lethbridge a grizzly bear was killed invading a foothill ranch. Two cougars were shot, one near Magrath and the other at Mountain View. Last winter herds of elk, which came from the Flathead country of British Columbia and from the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park, almost ate foothill ranchers' herds out of house and home. Now there's a movement on foot to set apart a buffer strip between parks and ranches so that sportsmen can keep elk herds within bounds. Mule deer have been increasing in population in the foothills, and half a dozen may often be seen among the cattle on the ranches.

After the hard winter of 1906-07 the antelope, a native of Alberta, almost disappeared. It was estimated at the time that not more than 250 head remained roaming the range between the Bow and Missouri rivers on both sides of the international border. Representations by J. J. McHugh of Nemican resulted in setting up the Nemican Antelope Park. Since then the antelope have increased to about 20,000 in Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan and there has been a short open season for some years.

This year, wild ducks saw much water from the melting snows of southern Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan that they didn't go north in their usual numbers. They stayed on the southern prairies and settled down to raise families. And big ones, too. The duck season was short with a limited bag this year so to give the duck population a chance to come back. Alberta's once great Hungarian partridge population is away down, too, due to hard winters in the late '30s, two bad hatching seasons in 1945 and 1946 and the natural cycle which at times decimates their numbers. There may be no open season on Hungarian partridge in the late '30s, but the one-way game and the combine have driven them into the foothills. Their place is being taken to some extent by the imported pheasant.

Ringnecks do well in South Alberta, and especially in the irrigated districts where willows along the ditches present good cover. The Brooks irrigation area is the mecca of pheasant hunters, but big irrigation projects around Lethbridge show a steadily increasing population of these great game birds.

Fish and game associations, and there is one in nearly every south Alberta town and city, are doing a lot to conserve South Alberta's game, and are the first to suggest closed seasons when necessary. To the members of these associations there's no allure to equal a man and his dog in the Indian summer sun of the fall shooting season.—By H. G. Long in Lethbridge Herald.

Clothing Is Great Problem In Britain

Coupons Have To Cover Needed

Fewer, fewer, fewer... that's the way clothing coupons are going in Britain, and with news that most things will be switched over to help the home market will be even scarcer before very long. The ration for the next few months from October 1 is 20 clothing coupons. As a suit rates 18, costs the same, most women in Britain will find it hard to buy either the winter. The remaining two coupons won't even buy a pair of stockings... which take three! And those 20 coupons have to last until the beginning of March. That's only half the problem; the greatest is that after six years of clothes rationing everything needs renewing and the same coupons have to be used for sheets, table linen and furnishing fabrics. It means continuing with "mends and mends," "patch and carry on," for a long time to come.

A few drops of glycerine over the bathroom mirror will prevent it from steaming when hot water is run for bath or shower. 2750

TEACHER SLUGGED—Mabelle Dunkin, 20, teacher of Glenan, Ont., says "I was hit by something and the next thing I knew it wasn't last night at all. It was this afternoon and I was lying in a ditch." She walked the 22 miles from the spot near Harrison, Ont., after she regained consciousness.

DON'T RUN OVER MY LITTLE GIRL!

Phil Brainin in the following letter, which appeared in the Tulsa World, gives a compelling argument for safe driving and safe thinking:

Dear Driver: Today my daughter, who is seven years old, started off to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her mother, whose name is "Sue", sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "goodby" and started off to the halls of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with the yellow curls and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the trees in the school yard—and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital important things; then we studied spelling, reading and arithmetic—and then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery—sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You won't, Timmy daddy. When her doll is broken, or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and bike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time—I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So—please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.

—Phil Brainin.

Sweepstakes Bookies Warned By Post Office Department

OTTAWA.—Sweepstakes bookies better head for cover—the post office department has started a drive to run them out of the mail.

W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster general, said that postal authorities across Canada had seized between 12,000 and 14,000 receipts headed for purchasers of tickets on the Cambridgebridge Handicap sweepstakes which brought fortunes to some Canadians. He warned that persons persisting in selling lottery tickets via the Royal Mail would have their mail stopped.

Commenting on a report from Toronto that several persons there had failed to receive receipts from this last Irish sweepstakes, Mr. Turnbull declared that seizures would be "intensified" until use of the mails for these purposes was stopped.

"The use of the post office for lotteries is illegal and has been for years," he said. "During the war there was no trouble as there were no lotteries, but now it's starting all over again... and if we find receipts for tickets in the mail we seize them."

No action is being taken against the individual buying a ticket, but it's the person who sells them the post office department is after.

PROVED GREAT SUCCESS
ABERDEEN, Scotland.—The experimental helicopter mail service, which each day carried 200 pounds of mail to and from the King during his stay at Balmoral Castle, was described in official circles as an outstanding success.
